A PREVIEW of the A-list dinners, parties and live shows during New York Fashion Week. Party photos at nytimes.com/fashion.

PRIVATE SHOPPING

Still mourning the loss of Fashion's Night Out? There's retail therapy at Target's shopping party for its new collaboration with 3.1 Phillip Lim.

Spring Studio, 50 Varick Street. Thursday 7 to 10 p.m. Invitation only.

I WANT TO BE A ROITFELD

Another Fashion Week, another party for Carine Roitfeld. The occasion this time is a documentary, "Mademoiselle C," about the former editor of Vogue Paris. A dinner follows the film premiere. Can't get enough of the Roitfelds? Her son, Vladimir Restoin Roitfeld, is hosting an opening the next day for Peter Lindbergh.

The Four Seasons Restaurant, 99 East 52nd Street. Friday, dinner from 9 p.m. Invitation only.

PARIS IN NEW YORK

Didn't get invited to Alexander Wang's show? Or his hush-hush after-party? (Hint: it's near the water.) Your Saturday of Fashion Week isn't a total wash. New York Frenchies are hosting a fashion-themed Parisian Ball on Governors Island, with D.J.'s, carnival rides and cool designers.

Governors Island, Saturday 5 p.m. to midnight, parisianball.com. Tickets from $40.

FASHION HARBOR

Opening Ceremony is taking over the SuperPier along the Hudson River, bringing in shops, food trucks and cronuts. It's open to the public during Fashion Week, except Sunday night, when the retailer holds a catwalk show followed by a party.

SuperPier, 25 11th Avenue (at West 15th Street), openingceremony.us. Sunday, show at 8 p.m., party from 10 p.m. Invitation only.
